THE BEST CHRISTMAS EVE

One snowy Christmas Eve all the kids that lived down ‘Hot and Cold’ Lane were building stuff out of snow. Most of the kids built snow men and snow women. Two of the kids were show off’s and built a car that you could hop into and drive. Amazing! (But still, they are show off’s). Everybody was happy that lived down ‘Hot and Cold’ Lane.

Except for one old man that lived by himself. He hated celebrations of any kind. Then all of a sudden the old man heard laughter. (He also hated laughter). It was coming from the front of his yard.

Then the old man looked out of the window and saw five children having a snow ball fight. The old man opened the window and before he could say “go away and don’t come back” one of the children threw a snow ball at him.

The old man didn’t look angry for once. He looked at the children and the children looked at him. Then the old man said “How about we make a deal?”

“Ok” said the five kids. “How about you guys can come in and have a hot chocolate with marshmallows, then you leave and don’t come back” said the old man.

The kids ran inside, drank the hot chocolate and then they said “Thankyou”. The old man had a warm feeling in his heart. The five kids were just about to leave when the man said “You can come back tomorrow and have some more”. The kids were delighted to have more and the man was delighted to have friends and company.